Research Support Service &
Professional Research Service
July 2010

Stressed out searching for journal articles?
Let us help! Reach us at 303-724-2152 or via our Ask-a-Librarian service on the web, http://hslibrary.ucdenver.edu/aal/.

Research Support Services can be tailored to meet your specific needs:

- Learn to search and/or manage your own article searches efficiently through a free one-on-one research consultation session. Call come by, or use the online request at:
  http://hslibrary.ucdenver.edu/research support/request-consultation.php.

- A citation management consultation regarding software such as EndNote® or Reference Manager®. Contact Paul Blomquist, MLS, by telephone: 303-724-2114, email: paul.blomquist@ucdenver.edu, or via the online request at http://hslibrary.ucdenver.edu/research-support/consult.php.

- Have a customized professional search performed for you for a fee, see the reverse side for more details.

These services are designed to complement the classes that are offered by the Health Sciences Library’s Education Department; find more information at:
http://hslibrary.ucdenver.edu/education.

Research support may include:

Training and orientation
- Personalized orientation to the library, its services and resources.
- Individualized training in the use of electronic databases such as PubMed, Embase, Cochrane etc.
- Selecting and using bibliographic management software, such as EndNote® or Reference Manager®.
- Learning how to use PDA and smart phones in an academic health setting.
- Assistance with MS Access & Excel for organizing research data.

Assistance with literature searching

- Identifying information resources and databases to support evidence-based practice, clinical decision making, research or education
- Developing research topic specific search strategies
- Planning a literature review and developing the search strategies for meta-analyses and systematic reviews
- Creating database Auto Alerts (SDI, RSS, automated email) to keep you current on your research projects
- Citation verification for bibliographies
- Professional, fee-based searches from the biomedical literature

(Over, please)
Technical and Web support

- Troubleshooting technical problems related to accessing the library's resources
- Searching and compiling Web resources for projects
- Formatting documents for Web Distribution (e.g. pdf)
- Advising copyright compliance questions

Document Delivery

The Interlibrary Loan Service is fee based. If you need an article, chapter, book, dissertation, or any other published item, we will provide it to you from our own collection or through our world-wide network. Policies and other information may be found at http://hslibrary.ucdenver.edu/interlibrary/policies.php or contact the Interlibrary Loan department by telephone: 303-724-2111 or email: copydocs@ucdenver.edu

Professional Research Service

Running out of time?
Would you like someone else to search the journal article databases?

Request a professional search!

An online fee-based computer search is designed to identify the published literature on a topic or by a particular author. Mediated searches are performed by trained, professional searchers who are able to produce customized comprehensive searches which are tailored to your specific interests.

The Health Sciences Library’s search analysts select the right databases and compile list of citations and abstracts on your topic. The databases searched can be any Health Sciences Library licensed database such as MEDLINE, PsycINFO or Chem Abstracts as well as over 400 commercial databases such as BIOSIS, EMBASE or Sociological Abstracts.

Contact Paul Blomquist, MLS, Search Service Coordinator by

- telephone: 303-724-2114
- email: paul.blomquist@ucdenver.edu.
- online request: http://hslibrary.ucdenver.edu/research-support/request-search.php.

Thank you.
Information, Research, & Outreach Services
Health Sciences Library